

Indian military high command helping CIA agents'

Approved For Release 2006/01/03 : CIA-RDP75-00149R000700290012-4

MOSCOW, Nov. 15: "Tass" said on Tuesday an American it identifies as a former US Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) agent, has charged that the military high command of India was "teeming" with CIA agents when he was there.

John Smith, who now lives in Moscow, wrote that he was "staggered by how deeply US intelligence penetrated the Indian military machine". The official Soviet news agency said in a summary of another installment of his memoirs in literary gazette, The summary of the installment was carried by "Tass" wires day before the magazine's publication date.

The agents were chiefly a group of highly placed Indian military men who were dissatisfied with late Prime Minister Nehru's policies and were pro-American oriented, "Tass" said.

"Tass" did not name the officers allegedly involved. In his first installment Smith was identified as being from Quincy, Massachusetts.

The US State Department acknowledged last month the existence of a John Smith who worked as a code clerk in India but denied that he ever worked for the CIA-APA.

Indian army is full of CIA agents

WEDNESDAY
"DAILY NEWS" NOV. 15, 1967

MOSCOW, Nov. 15 (APPA): TASS said on Tuesday an American it identifies as a former U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) agent has charged that the Military High Command of India was "teeming" with CIA agents when he was there.

John Smith, who now lives in Moscow, wrote that he was "staggered by how deeply U.S. intelligence penetrated the Indian military machine," the official Soviet news agency said in a summary of another installment of his memoirs in Literaturnaya Gazeta — Literary Gazette.

The agents were chiefly "a group of highly placed Indian military men who were dissatisfied with Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's policies and were pro-American oriented," Tass said.

Tass did not name the officers allegedly involved. In his first installment, Smith was identified as being from Quincy, Massachusetts.

The U.S. State Department acknowledged last month the existence of a John Smith who worked as a code clerk in India but denied that he ever worked for the CIA.